Production of Dress Ginghams Crane Estate For Spring Ordered in Advance Sells Holding

Output From October to March Well Sold and Allotments Will Be Made: Gray Goods Active

With but a few of the producers of dress ginghams yet to make their offerings for spring, the bulk of the offerings for spring, the bulk of the production of these fabrics to be produced between October and March or a month later have been ordered by the jobbers and garment manufacturers. The success of the forward business in ginghams is the outstands ing bright spot in the cotton goods rade and has given the entire cotton goods make a more cheerful tone the much hoped for revival in trade has failed and has given the entire cotton goods market a more cheerful tone than has obtained for some months. In most of the cases where ginghams for spring have been offered this week the response has been so great that the possible production of the mills has been oversold and a revision of orders will be necessary. Most buyers expressed a willingness to double the quantity allotted to them. Although most of the gingham patterns are in cheeks, plaids or stripes, new designs in these have been brought out, making the offering for the next season one of greater variety than ever before. Small cheeks have led in the ordering so far, although some buyers, as evidenced by their orders, expect popular demand to swing to stripes. Plaids have had relatively small call.

Preparations for the coming spring season in wash goods generally are refected in the stronger tone in the gray goods market, where converters are buying some cloths for printing and finishing in the next few months.

The market was particularly active on sheetings yesterday, and several constructions were advanced one-quarter of a cent a yard. Print cloth prices of a nactive fall period are being expressed by fewer and fewer peeple as time goes on. As the third year since the armistice approaches its end, it is being recognized in their demand to sufficient and return to normal conditions are matters of a number of years instead of months, and that in spite of great and continuing progress toward the goal, the complete readjustment of industry and finance is still far ahead of us. The most encouraging feature at present lies in the steady improvement in the banking situation."

Salers and manufacturers increased 1 per cent over the previous week for the country as a wnole, whereas payments dropp sheetings yesterday, and several constructions were advanced one-quarter of a cent a yard. Print cloth prices were firm, and it was said to be impossible to obtain the standard 64-60, 38½-inch prints for less than 6% cents a yard for July or August delivery.

Commercial Credit

he National Credit Office estimates the loss to bankers on commercial paper in the last 18 months at $18,720,000, or less than one-half of 1 per cent on the $4,000,000,000 invested. The bank service department of the Credit Office asserts that only 89 out of the 3,675 firms whose paper was sold in the open market have been forced to seek extensions or other settlements, and of these 53 either have paid or will pay the full amount of their notes. The remaining firms, 38 in number are exceeded to nay about their notes. The remaining firms, 36 in number, are expected to pay about 55 per cent.

Commercial paper was fairly active yesterday, with rates more indefinite than the day before because of the lowering of the Federal Reserve discount rate. Some brokers quoted 6 per cent for prime paper of short maturity and from 6¼ to 6½ per cent for longer maturities.

Large Sizes in Men's Goods Scarce at Retail

Rush Orders on Wholesalers
Result From "Skinning Down" Process

An epidemic in the shape of demand for large sizes in men's shoes, hats, collars, hosiery, underwear and other accessories has broken out in the Eastern section of the country. Manufacturers and wholesalers of these articles report that rush orders for large sizes

r immediate shipment have increased markably in the last two weeks and e now coming in stronger than ever. The explanation of this, according to The explanation of this, according to one manufacturer who has studied the situation, lies in the fact that for some time retailers have been "skinning down" their orders by the elimination of large sizes, which usually are poor sellers and which are normally carried as a convenience to the customer. As a result, few stores have been stocked on these larger sizes. Large men have been compelled to go from store to store, seeking apparel accessories in their size without much success. As a result, almost every store has had several calls for merchandise in these extra large sizes. One wholesale shoe man said yesterday that none of his customers in New York City had ordered anything above size 9 in men's shoes for fall delivery.

Becent steady advances in the leather market have given rise to discussion among shoe manufacturers concerning the advisability or necessity of advancing prices on shoes for fall delivery. Rumors in the local wholesale trade credit several leading factories with the intention of adding factories with the intention of adding factories with the wholesale price of shoes around September 1. Initial fall prices, it is explained, were based by the shoe manufacturers on the price of leather as it stood several ments ago.
